

A celebration of forest culture and launch of a Thousand Huts

15 June 2011, Greyfriars Kirk, Edinburgh

With Lesley Riddoch, Andy Wightman,
Mandy Haggith, Professor Chris Smout

Reforesting Scotland
www.reforestingscotland.org

Join us for

A celebration of forest culture and launch of a Thousand Huts

Reforesting Scotland celebrates the International Year of Forests with a memorable day of inspiring talks and discussions considering the past, present and future of forest culture in Scotland.

This event also marks the launch of a Thousand Huts, our campaign to celebrate the simple beauty and value of huts built in and from Scottish woods, and to encourage a resurgence of hut-building in Scotland.

With: Broadcaster and commentator Lesley Riddoch
Author and forest dweller Mandy Haggith
Land rights campaigner and author Andy Wightman
Prof Chris Smout, author and Historiographer Royal
... among others

When: Wednesday 15 June 2011
9.30am – 4.30pm

Where: Greyfriars Kirk
Edinburgh, EH1 2QA

Cost: £10 (includes refreshments but not lunch)

Booking: Please book in advance as we have limited places.
Email info@reforestingscotland.org
Phone 0131 220 2500
See www.reforestingscotland.org for full programme

Reforesting Scotland is a broad network of people involved or interested in restoring Scotland's forest cover and culture. We believe that bringing back once widespread woodlands would make Scotland richer economically, ecologically and culturally.

Restoring the land and the people
www.reforestingscotland.org